B-part (low)

Chords: D D G C | D D C D :| D G D A7 | D G C D :|

Source: Amanda Kerr; Randal Bays + Dave Marshall (with my own licks added)

Notes: Another new tune for me. Seems to have a lot in common with The Blackbird set dance, with its repeated landing on the open D, but is also recognizably distinct. Still figuring out chords and fine-tuning the arrangement. One interesting feature is a "slippery" C, sometimes sharp in line with with the key signature and sometimes dropping down to natural.

A little more repetitive, but in a good way! Good as a reference.
Chording remains basic / uncertain.

Two staves of music in G major (one sharp) and 4/4 time. The first staff contains measures 1-4, and the second staff contains measures 5-8. Chords are indicated above the notes: D, D, Em, D, G, A7 in the first staff, and D, D, Em, D, G, A7 in the second staff. A triplet of eighth notes is marked with a '3' in the final measure of the second staff.

B-part

Two staves of music in G major (one sharp) and 4/4 time. The first staff contains measures 9-12, and the second staff contains measures 13-16. Chords are indicated above the notes: D, D, G, D, G, A7 in the first staff, and D, D, G, D, G, A7 in the second staff. Irish rolls are marked with tilde (~) signs above the first and third notes of measures 9, 10, 11, and 12. A triplet of eighth notes is marked with a '3' in the final measure of the second staff.

Chords: D D/Em D G/A7 :| D D/G D G/A7 :|

Source: Adapted from versions at <https://thesession.org/tunes/141>

Notes: A fun tune I was shown in Durham! First comes the basic melody, then my variations.

The G and Em chords are fairly interchangeable. I mix and match them in this arrangement.

The ~ signs mark Irish rolls, meaning you need to do something like bow triplets to make it more interesting. Or fiddle through it, like I have in the second half of the B-part.

Notes: Now this is an interesting number! The B-part follows a pretty standard I/VIIb progression found in many Celtic tunes, but the A-part uses the "Dorian vamp," pretty unusual in fiddle tunes but a staple in classic rock. For that reason, I think it's perhaps a more "jammy" tune than a melodic one; and one version I looked at had a G-F-Em-Am windup that gave it a little more of a bluesy punch. The top 4 bars are the tune in its base form, and the bottom 4 bars illustrate how I imagine the tune in a jam setting.

Notes: Bonnie plays this on the viola and it sounds awesome. I've transposed it up a fifth to work on the fiddle. Another interesting thing is that she switches between A dorian (with a C natural) - which seems to be the standard - and mixolydian (C sharp). She combines B&B with Cuzle Together, another slipjig also in Amix (as well as Elsie Marly). This is supplemented with a version in Edor by Fraser and Haas, with a nice B-part.

The musical score is written for a single melodic line in G major (one sharp) and 6/8 time. It consists of six staves of music. The first staff begins with a treble clef, a key signature of one sharp (F#), and a 6/8 time signature. The melody is composed of eighth and sixteenth notes. Above the first four measures of the first staff are the chords G, G, G, and D. The second staff contains a first ending bracket labeled '1 G' and a second ending bracket labeled '2 G'. The third staff begins with a repeat sign and contains four measures with chords G, D, D, and D above them. The fourth staff also contains a first ending bracket labeled '1 G' and a second ending bracket labeled '2 G'. The fifth staff begins with a repeat sign and contains six measures with chords G, D, G, D, A, and D above them. The sixth staff contains a first ending bracket labeled '1 G' and a second ending bracket labeled '2 G'.

Notes: Another new tune for me. Seems to have a lot in common with The Blackbird set dance, with its repeated landing on the open D, but is also recognizably distinct. Still figuring out chords and fine-tuning the arrangement. One interesting feature is a "slippery" C, sometimes sharp in line with with the key signature and sometimes dropping down to natural.

Notes: Now this is an interesting number! The B-part follows a pretty standard I/VIIb progression found in many Celtic tunes, but the A-part uses the "Dorian vamp," pretty unusual in fiddle tunes but a staple in classic rock. For that reason, I think it's perhaps a more "jammy" tune than a melodic one; and one version I looked at had a G-F-Em-Am windup that gave it a little more of a bluesy punch. The top 4 bars are the tune in its base form, and the bottom 4 bars illustrate how I imagine the tune in a jam setting.

Bonnie's variation

Cuzle Together

Edor version by Fraser and Haas

Source: Bonnie Rideout, _Scottish Fire_ (2000); A. Fraser and N. Haas, _Fire & Grace_ (2004).

Notes: Bonnie plays this on the viola and it sounds awesome. I've transposed it up a fifth to work on the fiddle. Another interesting thing is that she switches between A dorian (with a C natural) - which seems to be the standard - and mixolydian (C sharp). She combines B&B with Cuzle Together, another slipjig also in Amix (as well as Elsie Marly). This is supplemented with a version in Edor by Fraser and Haas, with a nice B-part.

Notes: I've modified the bowing to something that makes more sense to me. But of course this is just a model to be played with.

The musical score is written for a single melodic line in G major (one sharp) and 6/8 time. It consists of six staves of music. The first staff begins with a treble clef, a key signature of one sharp (F#), and a 6/8 time signature. The melody is composed of eighth and sixteenth notes. Above the first four measures of the first staff are the chords G, G, G, and D. The second staff contains a first ending bracket labeled '1 G' and a second ending bracket labeled '2 G'. The third staff begins with a repeat sign and contains four measures with chords G, D, D, and D above them. The fourth staff also contains a first ending bracket labeled '1 G' and a second ending bracket labeled '2 G'. The fifth staff begins with a repeat sign and contains six measures with chords G, D, G, D, A, and D above them. The sixth staff contains a first ending bracket labeled '1 G' and a second ending bracket labeled '2 G'.

Notes: Lovely tune! Unusually (as far as I know), each part ends with an extra two beats.

Has a strong melodic sympathy with the Blackbird Hornpipe. D mixolydian, chords tentative.
