Ye Old Elm Tree Rant

Chords: A, D, A, D, B7, E, A, D, A, D, E, A, E, F#m, D, E, A, D, A, E, A.

Notes: These are named after the 3 pubs which have hosted the Monday session in Durham over the last 50 years. See recording at https://youtu.be/LkPSt-0y4q0?si=LX8cenzA4__PamoR. I can see this was written by a mandolinist! This is one case where the bowings are crucial for playing some of these runs, and I had to make a few other adjustments.

Neat tune! Simple in its basic form, but it has really grown on me.

I'm afraid I don't know if there's a "standard" form of the tune; this is just me cobbling together what I've heard and what I've invented on top of it.

Notes: Another new tune for me. Seems to have a lot in common with The Blackbird set dance, with its repeated landing on the open D, but is also recognizably distinct. Still figuring out chords and fine-tuning the arrangement. One interesting feature is a "slippery" C, sometimes sharp in line with with the key signature and sometimes dropping down to natural.

The image displays a musical score for the song "The Sound of Silence" by Simon & Garfunkel. It is presented in a single system with five staves. The first staff is for the guitar, and the subsequent four staves are for the vocal parts. The key signature is A major (three sharps: F#, C#, G#), and the time signature is 4/4. The guitar part includes a capo on the 4th fret, indicated by a bracket and the number 4. The score is divided into two main sections, labeled 1 and 2, which correspond to the first and second verses of the song. Chord diagrams are provided above the guitar staff for each measure, showing the fingerings for the guitar. The vocal parts are written in treble clef, with the lyrics "The sound of silence" written below the notes. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and bar lines, and the overall layout is clean and professional.

The first system of the musical score for 'The Rose Tree' is written on a single staff. It begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The melody consists of eighth and sixteenth notes. Above the staff, the notes are labeled with their corresponding letter names: F, B-flat, F, G, C, and F. The system ends with a double bar line.

B-part

The image displays a musical score for the song "The Sound of Silence" by Simon & Garfunkel. It is presented in a four-staff format, with each staff containing a guitar part (indicated by a treble clef and a key signature of one flat) and a piano part (indicated by a bass clef and a key signature of one flat). The guitar part is written in a simplified, chord-based style, while the piano part is written in a more traditional, melodic style. The score is divided into four measures, each with a corresponding chord diagram above it. The chords are Dm, Dm, A7, and Dm, followed by a final measure with a C chord. The piano part features a prominent melody in the right hand, with a triplet of eighth notes in the first measure of the first staff. The guitar part is primarily composed of chords, with some melodic lines in the right hand. The overall style is that of a simple, accessible musical arrangement, likely intended for educational or recreational purposes.

Notes: Bonnie plays this on the viola and it sounds awesome. I've transposed it up a fifth to work on the fiddle. Another interesting thing is that she switches between A dorian (with a C natural) - which seems to be the standard - and mixolydian (C sharp).
